

For the Traveler Who Is Staying Put, the Best Gifts From Hotels Around the World

BY LILAH RAMZI

November 19, 2020

A girl on the go photographed by Miles Aldridge, Vogue, March 2007.

This December marks the close of a year where even those with Frequent Flyer miles in the hundreds and thousands have not been traveling. Everyone has, for the most part, stayed put. But while London's swanky Connaught hotel (with the best bar in the world) may be out of reach, their Martini glasses are just an online order away. Il Pellicano's Slim Aarons-famous pool, meanwhile, can be recreated at a pool near you with their striped beach towel. And though you may be unable to venture to Aspen for New Year's Eve, where the St. Regis's imposing red brick building gets dusted with snow, you can sport their collaboration with Stubbs and Wootton. One of the styles, designed by Zach Weiss, features a spray of bubbly Champagne. Your feet may be firmly planted at home but your spirits will be transported to the epic end of the year countdown you deserve.

These, and more of the best gifts from hotels around the world, below.

13/26

The Ranch lavender soap

The Ranch is one of those hallowed hotels promising life-changing wellness epiphanies. Their reputation is one that's lured Hollywood for years. The resort's treatment-based stays might not be available to all, but their products are. This lavender soap is made with ingredients harvested from The Ranch's 2-acre organic garden in the Santa Monica mountains. Purchase the calming bar as a one-off or set up a recurring order so you never run out of zen.

$28
THE RANCH MALIBU

SHOP NOW